Texas requires nonprofit corporations to have at least three directors, one president, and one secretary. The same person cannot be both the president and secretary. Directors have fiduciary duties of loyalty, care, and to follow the law.

Examples of possible BCJLS director fiduciary duties are to:

1. Attend and participate in board meetings.
2. Ensure that the organization's officers are qualified to perform required duties.
3. Supervise the organization's officers.
4. Ensure that the officers prepare adequate reports before board meetings.
5. Carefully review all reports and following up with any relevant questions.
6. Stay up to date on the BCJLS's business issues and policies.
7. Maintain schedules to review and approve the strategic direction of the organization, executive compensation, legal compliance, and budget.
8. Ensure that dissent or disagreement with any board action is documented.
9. Create board minutes of any major transaction documenting that the directors' personal interests did not motivate the transaction and that the directors diligently and sufficiently informed themselves about the transaction.

Ensure compliance with the Texas provisions for interested director contracts or transactions by presenting and explaining the material facts of the contract or transaction to the board, including the interested director's role in the contract or transaction, and obtaining approval by the vote of a majority of the disinterested directors.
